BROOKLYN CAPABLE OF A STRONG FIGHT

Red Sox Favorites in Betting, But Dodgers Should Be Worthy Opponents.

BOSTON SURE TO MISS THE SERVICES OF BARRY

BY J. ED GRILLO.

Although the betting element has made the Red Sox the favorites in the coming world series race, it being natural conclusion that Carrigan has the stronger team, there are those who believe that the Dodgers will make etter showing than did the Phillies in the series last fall, when they won but one game of the five played.

This belief is largely based on the fact that the Dodgers have at least two pitchers who are apt to be troublesome for the Red Sox. They are Jack Coombs and Rube Marquard, two veterans who have had experience in world series, and have been displaying good form this year.

Brooklyn also has a good hitting team, though it is not as strong in this respect as is the American League en-respect as is the American League entry.

Carrigan will not miss Speaker as much as he will Jack Barry, who, it is announced, will not be able to get into the series. Barry was one of the strongast men on Carrigan's infield in last season's series, and had Scott appreciated Barry's ability to cover ground the Phillies would not have won a single game. It was Scott's failure to cover second on a ball hit over the bag in the first game of the series, which prevented Barry from retiring the Phillies in this inning without a run.

Speaker did not field up to his standard on Braves' field, and compared to Hooper and Lewis he hit rather poorly, geting an average of .294, against Lewis with .444 and Hooper with .350.

The American League season of 1916 losed yesterday, with the Nationals hishing in seventh place. Their dual rictory allowed the Yankees to finish in fourth place, beating out the St. Louis Browns, whose admirers felt greatly elated when they thought the Jones team was carded for a first division berth.

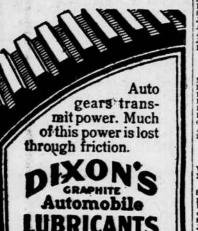

There is every reason for believing that Manager Griffith will have a much improved ball team next season. The addition of considerably more ave been able to claim heretofore, and he fact that the pitching staff is likely be able to display better form than i did during the past season, should o much to help place the team among

If the approaching world series is favored with good weather there is a good chance of all attendance records being broken. The Red Sox management has displayed good judgment in consenting to play the games on Braves Field, which can accommodate more spectators than the Polo Grounds in New York. Incidentally, the Brooklyn park is a modern structure which can accommodate 40,000.

That the injury to Shortstop Ban-eroft of the Phillies killed whatever chance there was for Pat Moran to re-peat his performance of the year be-fore when he won the National League pennant goes without saying. At any rate, with Bancroft and Whit-ted, who broke his ankle, out of the same, there would have been but a slim chance for Moran's team to stand up before the Red Sox in the world

The story that McGraw is to be at next season has been revived, and there may be more to this than appears on the surface. Stories to this effect were going the rounds of New York at a lively clip this summer, and, though denied, there are those who admit that they would are those who admit that they would not be surprised if the deal were made. Comiskey has a warm spot in his heart for the leader of the Giants. And while it is said that Ban Johnson is opposed to having McGraw in his league, Comiskey usually has his own way in affairs that concern his club.

Russell and Shocker pitched superb ball against the Nationals in the double-header. Russell allowed the visitors but six hits in the first game, while Jim Shaw was found for seven drives, one of them, Pipp's home run, putting the game on ice.

In the second game Ayers and Jamieson did the pitching, but Shocker held the Nationals to four hits and won much as he pleased. Sam Rice, the Washington right fielder, got a home run in the first game and a double in the second game. The visitors played good ball in the field, Sawyer, at second, doing particularly brilliant work. The scores:

The value of Thurman to Virginia in a game such as that which is to be fore, cannot be overestimated. Thurman's kicking was one of the biggest factors in the successes of the Corange and Blue eleven in 1915 and his work this season should be little less effective. The news that Thurman had left France to return to college was received at Charlottesville by the student the report that a gift of $250,000 had been made to the university. Anyway, the correspondent down there sent out a brief announcement of the financial gift, which appeared as such in the papers, but a long story was written about Thurman and many papers in the south carried the news with a big black line over it for a head.

The Maryland State College and Georgetown squads scrimmaged yesterday for more than an hour. Both teams went after each other hammer and tongs, and neither would have shown any more spirit if a regular game had been on. Some weaknesses cropped out in the Georgetown line, though as a whole the forwards did creditable work. The backfield was the backfield, which means that when it got the opportunity it made good for gains.

One man in the Georgetown line who has received very little prominence in reports of the practices, and yet undoubtedly is the most valuable of the forwards, is Dan O'Connor, the tackle who yesterday was elected to the captaincy in place of Mahlum, guard, who has not returned. O'Connor is the biggest and most aggressive player in the Blue and Gray line. His work on the offense and defense is of the kind to be noted at all times. Big, rangy and strong, O'Connor combines his almost ideal build for the position with ability to grasp situations and diagnose plays that is exceptional.

Those in charge at Georgetown—and

Those in charge at Georgetown—and the players as well—are showing no hesitation in saying that they expect to win from the Navy Saturday. The Blue and Gray squad is in good shape physically, the only drawback right now being that all the players do not have quite as good a grasp of the signals as they might.

Practice together seems to be getting a general thing, for colleges here, and there is no doubt that they will all benefit by it. George Washington and Catholic University lined up for forty or fifty minutes of hard play yesterday, and both did well. The C. U. line did not play up to the standard of that of last year, but its backs did brilliant work. The Hatchetites' backfield showed some brilliant individuals, but of course, there was some lack of team play.

Johnny Bradley, formerly a fullback at Somerville High School, Massa-chusetts, was out for practice yester-day, with the Maryland State squad. He entered the Maryland institution Smathers, the owner of fast horses, had placed $20,-090 to $14,000 on the Boston Americans to win. A number of smaller wagers at ten to six were reported. It was announced that the four umpires chosen for the world series would meet in Boston today to agree upon a uniform interpretation of rules. The "infield fiy" is one point upon which an agreement is desired because, in the American League, a runner must hold his base on such a fiy, while in the National League he can run at his own risk.

The Virginia Destal Association by President Comiskey and that he has virtually agreed to take over that club. His contract with the Giants expires this year. McGraw and Comiskey are great friends. Recently the owner of the White Sox wired McGraw congratulating him on his long stretch of twenty-six victories, which was a new record for major league base ball. This really has no significance, as Comiskey considered the feat of the Giants wonderful and thought McGraw and his club deserved to be commended for their achievement.
